TENUTA
MONTETI

Tenuta Monteti is in Tuscany in the southern part of the Tuscan Maremma, in the surroundings of the small town of Capalbion, on the hills, just behind the hill named Monteti. Monteti is the name of the hill where part of the estate lies. The hill is exactly in front of the vines and protects them from the wind that comes from the sea. It is 425 mt (1394,36 feet) high and on the top there are ruins of roman and medieval settlements. The Tenuta Monteti is a family owned property. The initiative is the result of the personal engagement of Paolo Baratta, who runs the business. Carlo Ferrini has been at his side since the beginning and still has the key role of consultant, with the support of Gioia Cresti. Roberto Rossi is responsible of the vineyard operations. Andrea Elmi is the oenologist of the Tenuta.

The work for the preparation of the land has been a very demanding job. Deep drainages have been executed, using the heap of stones which was obtained during the trenching. During these works the big rocks came to the surface. The biggest ones have been left around the fields, near the vines, and have now become a characteristic of the landscape.

The property is composed of four contiguous vineyards: 13,2 hectares the biggest one, 2,2 hectares the smallest, 7 and 5,6 hectares, the two intermediate ones. The soil has a various composition. It is fairly stony, with an adequate presence of clay, that ensures a deep humidity.

Particular attention is given to maintain a balanced relation between canopy surface and the bunches of grapes. The vineyard is entirely equipped with a drip fed irrigation system.

Age of the vines: the oldest one was planted in the year 2000.

Vines density: 6.600 vines per hectare.

Varietals planted: Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Petit Verdot, Merlot, Alicante-Bouschet.
